Use of AfL for Gujarati - Writing

AfL in Writing allows us to evaluate and give feedback to our students on their written work. Also, to understand the strengths & weaknesses. This will show us the next steps in order to progress their writing skills.

What assessment tool? We can use 'Level descriptions for Gujarati writing Assessment'.

Steps to Assess Writing using AfL Level Descriptions

1. Familiarise yourself with Level Descriptions: Understand the AfL level descriptions which outline the expected standards for different levels.
2. Determine the key criteria to assess, such as:
    - Formation & writing the script – basic letters/ words – accuracy in particular different linguistic nuances between writing Gujarati and English (often stems from oracy!)
    - Content and ideas
    - Organisation and structure
    - Language use (vocabulary, grammar, sentence structure)
    - Spelling and punctuation
    - Translation elements
3. Assess student Writing: Evaluate student writing sample against the level descriptions, considering the key criteria.
4. Match to Level descriptions: Match the student's writing to the corresponding level description, identifying strengths and areas for improvement.
5. Provide Feedback: provide constructive feedback to students, highlighting areas of strength and suggesting improvements.

Using Level Descriptions to plan/inform teaching

1. Identify gaps: Identify gaps in student's understanding and adjust teaching accordingly.
2. Tailor the teaching: Tailor your instruction to meet the needs of individual students, focusing on what requires improvement.
3. Monitor progress: Regularly monitor student progress, adjusting instruction and feedback as needed.

Assessment for Learning

Level Descriptions for Gujarati Writing

Level 1

Learners write or copy words or symbols correctly. They label items and select appropriate words to complete sentences. Their writing shows letters hanging from the line.

Level 2

Learners write one or two short sentences, following a model, and fill in the words on a simple form. They write familiar short phrases correctly. When they write familiar words from memory, their spelling may be approximate.

Level 3

Learners write a few short sentences, with support, using expressions that they may have already learnt. They express personal responses. They write short phrases from memory and their spelling is readily understandable. Their word order follows Subject-Object-Verb pattern.

Level 4

Learners write short texts on familiar topics, adapting language that they have already learnt. They mostly make use of memorised language. They begin to use their knowledge of grammar to adapt and substitute individual words and set phrases, using post positions correctly. They begin to use dictionaries or glossaries to check words they have learnt.

Level 5

Learners write short texts on a range of familiar topics, using simple sentences. They refer to recent experiences or future plans, as well as to everyday activities. They use an Increasing range of vocabulary. Although there may be some mistakes, the meaning can be understood with little or no difficulty. They use dictionaries or glossaries to check words they have learnt and to look up unknown words.

Level 6

Learners write texts giving and seeking information and opinions. They use descriptive language and a variety of structures. They apply grammar in new contexts. Risks are taken in using language not practised in class. Although there may be a few mistakes, the meaning is usually clear.
